The only solution to the world's problems lies in global revolution against the capitalist system. A handful of First World nations benefit from the ongoing brutal exploitation of the Third World, maintained through imperialist domination and subjugation of indigenous peoples around the world. The global capitalist system was built on slavery, genocide, and stolen land, and it now threatens the entire planet with worldwide environmental destruction. Only through the defeat of imperialism and the dismantling of capitalism can an egalitarian, sustainable system be built. This requires Global People's War and the development of New Power, socialism with the goal of total liberation: the end of all oppression, exploitation, and class division; the end of the state, which exists as an instrument of oppression; and the regeneration and protection of the planet's ecosystems. The world's poor and oppressed, and those in solidarity with them, must form a broad alliance against the U.S. and its puppet regimes in order to effectively defeat imperialism and establish New Power.

Who Are Our Friends, Who Are Our Enemies?

As we see today, Americans overwhelmingly support capitalism and oppose revolution against this system of greed and inequality. The wealth, privilege, and comfort of the First World is derived from the oppression and exploitation of the Third World. Almost all Americans are global net exploiters, as they are paid more than the value they produce in the global market. Because they materially benefit from it, a wide majority of Americans support capitalism and imperialism. Although some individuals betray their class interests and stand in solidarity with the masses of the Third World against capitalism, most Americans—and First Worlders in general—can be expected to side with capitalist-imperialism due to their level of privilege and comfort in the world.

Many among the so-called "left" in the U.S. claim to support revolution, but are actually supporting reactionary forces that aim to make only minor reforms to the capitalist system. The First World lifestyle is unsustainable and is dooming the planet to total destruction. Those in the First World who truly oppose fascism and global environmental destruction must stand in solidarity with their sisters and brothers in the Third World who are fighting to defeat imperialism and overthrow capitalism. Only by completely dismantling the capitalist system can total liberation be achieved.
